

Narrator: AdCare is here to help individuals and families coping with the disease of addiction.

Katie Anderson: Family's begin to communicate in a whole new way. More openly, more honestly, to begin to actually overcome some of the hurt that they felt for so many years. It's really a restorative experience.

Narrator: Choosing treatment takes courage.

Katie Anderson: After families make that first phone call they begin to feel relief. They have probably been holding onto fear and tension and anxiety for so long that it begins to feel normal.
